

A League for War
To Save Baby Oysters
Watch $10,000 Bills
By Arthur Brisbane

Says Senator Harding: "If we enter into the League of Nations and consent to the provisions of Article X, and the majority of nations think it to be the duty of the league to use armed force, we should be morally bound to respond with men and treasure." That is the truth.

Under the League of Nations, which is a league of war to tie up the United States to the troubles of Europe, we must respond with men and money when ordered to do so by a foreign council.

The earthquake in Italy killed hundreds. Towns and villages are practically destroyed.

Will it be considered a warning on high? Will the people educated by the geologists say? "The earth is simply settling into its permanent state, this has nothing to do with politics."

W. F. Wells, intelligent public official, has found a way to raise oysters by hand.

A female oyster lays from ten million to a hundred million eggs every season. Yet there have been shortages of oysters because reckless men destroyed old oysters, and waste of nature destroys young ones.

Mr. Wells developed a plan for taking the oyster eggs direct from the mother, protecting the baby oyster, getting them started early, until they are able to protect themselves with small, hard shells. That is important news from the ocean.

News just as important comes from France. It tells of a baby submarine, very small, not expensive, able to go to the ocean's bottom in places hitherto not reached by any sounding line. This small machine will find and explode the wrecks of this and other wars, and retrieve gold and other treasure. What is more important, it will take down scientists to develop mines and other wealth.

Men do not realize the wealth that lies in the ocean and holds the ocean's bed. A father and mother oyster if all their little ones, could live would fill the ocean full and sell with oysters in a short time. The ocean is a vast empire, able without cost or labor to supply food unlimited.

The submarine, developed by the war, and used hereafter, as it should be, in peace, in the ocean's depths, may easily discover in a short time enough wealth to pay for the whole war.

The police of New York City request you to examine carefully all bills of the denomination of ten thousand dollars. If one is offered to you numbered B-32, it is the bill stolen from T. B. Smith, by criminals that beat and robbed him.

NEW OFFERING $10 Per Share

NEW ENGLAND MINERALS CO.

No Bonds or Preferred Stock

THE COMPANY (organized 1918) is in full operation and offers this stock for the purpose of increasing its capacity to meet the growing demand for its product of fine ground mica.

N. H. Emmons, 2d, President and General Manager. Has had extensive experience with North Butte Mining, Old Dominion Copper and as General Manager of the Tennessee Copper Co., when the famous Sulphuric Acid Plant was put in operation.

LOCATION of the company's plant is in the same part of New Hampshire as two of the mines belonging to the General Electric Company. Part of its property adjoins the richest and oldest mine in the United States.

BUSINESS FIELD is excellent, there is no other grinding plant in New England or the middle Atlantic States. The demand for mica has increased in a startling manner because it is the only perfect insulation—being unaffected by acid, fire or electric current.

F. W. Woolworth, Fisk Rubber, U. S. Rubber, Allen Higgins Wall Paper, Denison Mfg. Warren Soap Mfg. National Toy Molding, Simplex Wire & Cable, Mikeseif Bros., Eugene Russell.

PLATE MICA has already been found at the quarry; in fact, the property was successfully worked some years ago for nothing but plate mica.

Our other offerings have been largely conservative bonds or preferred stocks. So we offer this stock as an excellent business risk rather than an investment. It is an established industry with large possibilities.

Orders filled as received for 10,000 shares. After which the right is reserved to refuse all orders.

Unless conditions here are remedied at once.

Strikebreakers were to be banished. According to the White Star line, Grek at the Commonwealth Pier today, providing the regular ship workers, who walked out as a protest against British activities in Ireland, failed to show up.

This policy was successfully operated at the pier at Grek, Haddock, Grek, where the British membership movement was underway.

The striking Board steamer, Inverloch for Antwerp was loaded at the adjacent pier.

About forty men loaded the Laidlaw liner and as the ship left the pier, the men were seen to be waving.

Threats have already been made that the steamship Zoro will be sent to Montreal to discharge her cargo.

The Italian dock workers at Genoa have set all the docks, piers and warehouses. Just as the iron and steel mills were taken over by the metal workers.

The Italian railway men are giving aid to the workers who have flung out the flag of industrial revolution.

Milan reports the railroad employees issuing food and other supplies to factories where Soviets have been created.

Labor troubles have spread to Trieste, where two persons were killed in riots, and an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome. A general strike has been proclaimed throughout Venezia.

His lead in Georgia. Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 9.—Reports today from Wednesday's Georgia primary indicate that Thomas E. Watson has defeated Governor Hugh Dorsey and Senator Mike Smith for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator by over eighty county units.

Still, on the face of the matter, Watson's comfortable lead for the gubernatorial nomination, both Watson and Haddock opposed the League of Nations.

There are several customers in this territory who would be glad to contract for the company's entire output. Steady buyers are:

Geo. Borgfeldt, American Toy, National Metal Molding, Simplex Wire & Cable, Allen Higgins Wall Paper, Mikeseif Bros., Eugene Russell, Denison Mfg., Warren Soap Mfg.

Business is all working to the company has no debt. We estimate earnings of $60,000 per year and figure on all applicable taxes. We also count on a recovery of only three-fourths of the mica from rock which Mr. Charles L. Whittle, Consulting Mining Engineer, reports running 15 per cent. mica. No earnings are included for the production of felspar or plate mica.

PLATE MICA has already been found at the quarry; in fact, the property was successfully worked some years ago for nothing but plate mica. In this mica sets according to size, bringing as high as $25 per pound. One should remember that copper brings only 19c per pound, runs only 2% in the rock and that a copper mine costs much more to develop. Certain copper stocks might profitably be exchanged for this issue because this company is producing an equally necessary raw material subject to much less competition. The business has been developed conservatively with the idea of grinding scrap mica, yet the possibilities of plate mica as a by-product cannot be overlooked. Our other offerings have been largely conservative bonds or preferred stocks. So we offer this stock as an excellent business risk rather than an investment. It is an established industry with large possibilities. Orders filled as received for 10,000 shares. After which the right is reserved to refuse all orders.

MACSWINEY FEELS MUCH PAIN

By International News Service. London, Sept. 9.—The "Carsonites" adherents of the principles of Sir Edward Carson, Ulster Unionist leader, have gained domination in the cabinet and all Irish hunger strikers are to be allowed to die, according to a report current in official circles this afternoon.

It is understood that Premier Lloyd George, under pressure from Sir Edward Carson, chief secretary for Ireland, Sir Nevill MacSwiney, continued on Page 2, Column 2.

London, Sept. 9.—Teresa MacSwiney, Sinn Féin Lord Mayor of Cork, who has been in a hunger strike for twenty-eight days, passed a very broken and restless night. He is suffering from numbness in the limbs, and is feverish. He suffered considerable pain during the night. An official bulletin, issued at 6 a. m., said his condition was unchanged.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon it was reported that the numbers which had settled upon MacSwiney's arms and legs was spreading to other parts of his body.

PONZI HEARING POSTPONED Counsel for Creditors Charge Certain Subpoenas Are Illegal The hearing in the affairs of Charles Ponzi, scheduled to have taken place

The announcement was made by Judge Robert M. O'Connor, who presided over the creditors' hearing. After the hearing, the creditors had pointed that Attorney McInane was not present to represent the creditors. The court ruled that the subpoena issued for witnesses were illegal.

McInane's lawyers were on hand, including Miss Lucy Melli, Ponsa's former secretary, John B. Dondero and Joseph J. Ponsa. Ponsa's lawyer understood to have been summoned, were absent.

Dwyer then appeared and informed the referee that Attorney McInane was engaged before the Supreme Court for several days. The referee's hearings for several days. Referee O'Connor said that the hearing would be postponed until the next day. Attorney McInane was present.

HARDING SHIFT SCORED BY COX

Democratic Nominee Accuses Senator of Holding Eight Views of League

By Universal Service.
Great Falls, Mont., Sept. 8.—Governor Cox spoke here to an assembly in the public park. In the course of his address the Ohio governor charged Senator Harding with having had eight different views of the League of Nations.

His first public attitude on the league was exhibited in his vote in the Senate for mild reservations, asserted Cox. Next he supported the Lodge reservations, and later voted for the Knox reservation for a separate peace with Germany. Nominated on a platform which maintained that the league had signally failed, he proposed the scrapping of the league. Continuing, Cox maintained that on August 23 Harding had proposed the revival of the old league tribunal, stating nine days later that the league was beyond possibility of restoration, while on the same day the Senator saw a possibility of a revised league.

He pointed also to the inconsistency of various Republican leaders, especially Taft and Johnson, who, whatever their attitude toward the league, all declared their agreement with the Republican nominee. During his course through Montana, Governor Cox made ten tall-oak speeches, mostly to groups of cowboys, Indians, ranchmen and business men.

Lenine Admits Reds Failed in West

By Universal Service.
London, Sept. 8.—Premier Lenine of Soviet Russia is highly satisfied with the progress of Bolshevism all over the world except in England and the United States where he feels that its growth is too slow. He wrote to a friend in Geneva, according to a dispatch to the London Express.

The premier, in the letter, admits that the Bolshevik military invasion of the west failed, but has his hopes for a great success in the east, resting on military action with the aid of River Russia, the Emirs of Afghanistan and Bolshevism and propaganda.

NOTED JOHNS HOPKINS SAVANT DIES IN MAINE

Portland, Me., Sept. 8.—Dr. Harman N. Morse, professor of analytical and inorganic chemistry at Johns Hopkins University for a number of years is dead at his summer home at Chatham Island. He was a prominent member of foreign and American scientific organizations, and a graduate of the University of Göttingen and of the University of Berlin. He was a widower, two sons and a daughter. He was sixty-two years of age.

WHISKEY FOR MEDICINAL USE BARRED FROM NAVY

Washington, Sept. 8.—The United States Naval Bureau of Medicine and Surgery has prohibited the issuance of liquor supplies to ships for medical purposes. Medical supply depots are prohibited from making further purchases of liquor when the present supplies are exhausted. "Whiskey will be stricken from the supply table of the medical department," the order states.

WOMAN AND BOY AUTO VICTIMS

Killed in Streets of Springfield; Driver of One Machine Is Put Under Arrest

Springfield, Sept. 8.—One woman was instantly killed and a child fatally hurt in auto accidents here. The dead woman is Blanche E. Brown, aged thirty-five, of No. 22 Wendell avenue. She was crossing a street against a trolley pole at State and Spring streets by the car of Blanche Lee Lee of the Quinlan Club, No. 1000. She was attempting to cross the street when she was struck by a trolley, when, unable to stop his auto, he drove it up on the curb. He was arrested. With his young son, Lee was returning from a shopping trip in Maine.

Woman Injured When Car Hits Auto in Somerville

Mrs. Leon M. Harris of No. 287 Elm street, Concord Junction, suffered a fractured hip and multiple bruises when an auto in which she was riding was struck by an electric car at the junction of Broadway and the Fells, Somerville. The accident occurred at the home of Mrs. Harris, who was driving a car. The electric car was driven by Frederick C. Vidor, who was driving a car. The accident occurred at the home of Mrs. Harris, who was driving a car. The electric car was driven by Frederick C. Vidor, who was driving a car.

Chance for Women as Election Officers

Women may be clerks, clerks and inspectors at the State election according to the hope held out by Chairman "Merr" Barlow of the election commissioners. The terms of all the men now holding these positions expire on September 15 and a new list will be made up on September 20. But — and here is the catch — Chairman Barlow says the commissioners are usually guided in the selection of election officers by the ward chairman. So if the women will, not only will they be the friendly ear of some ward chairman, they may serve at the forthcoming State and presidential election on November 2.

It's worth while, too. Clerks get $11 per day and wardens and not a bad wage in these days of high costs. Applicants must be registered and qualified voters, that is they must have declared themselves Democrats or Republicans at the primaries.

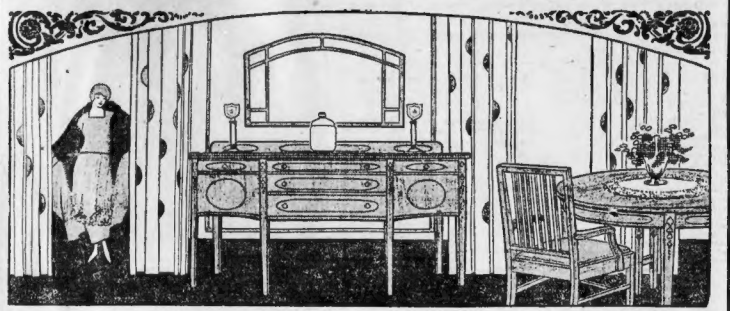

Mr. Harris was severely shaken up. The electric car was in charge of Motorman Joseph Micalist of No. 15 Mills street, Malden.

BOY BLACKMAILER IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Greenfield, Sept. 8.—William Brown, aged eighteen, who admitted in court that he married a "Black Hawk" note to Frederick C. Vidor, a number of times, was held in bonds of $1,000 for the grand jury. Unable to furnish bail he was committed to the house of correction.

Summerfield's

It's the Square Deal Behind the Summerfield Policy That Has Made This Business a Success

Illustrated Above—This charming 3-Piece Sheraton Period Dining Suite, constructed of solid mahogany and beautifully inlaid. 54-inch Table and 6-ft. Buffet, Serving Table (not shown in illustration), Arm Chair and 5 Side Chairs. Value $1090. Specially priced. $680.00

It is easy enough to embark upon a business career and at the start to do business. After all, however, the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and great business institutions do not achieve a business success that is lasting unless their policy of doing business is absolutely sound in every particular. When the SUMMERFIELD business was inaugurated in Boston the term dignified credit was used.

At that time installment furniture houses were in ill-repute owing to a laxity in their methods and unscrupulous manner of doing business. This great SUMMERFIELD institution has really dignified credit in every sense of the word. A child of tender years can come in here and buy furniture and receive the same courteous attention, the same honorable treatment as the most experienced furniture buyer in the world.

Summerfield has nothing to conceal—that is the secret of a success that is long and lasting

BEWARE OF HOME-REARDED MAN, SAYS MRS. DICKERMAN

"My sad tragedy should be a lesson to other women to keep their hearts hard—not to listen nor to believe all that men say to them."

This is one of the lessons which Mrs. Robert Elliot Dickerman, who is suing her mother-in-law, Mrs. Minnie L. Dickerman, of Somerville, for the alienation of the affection of her young husband, has drawn from the cruel world war. In her pretty home on Nichols street, Somerville, Mrs. Dickerman, who is now a widow, tells about the misery she has gone through because she loved too tenderly and trusted too much. She said:

"Over there in Paris a man made love to me. He vowed eternal matrimony. He said that he needed you, he told you that he did not dare to face life without you. The women over there in Paris plied. They married these war heroes. And the heroes, in too many cases, forgot all too soon and went away, leaving English and broken hearts behind them. For they were the modern descendants of those knights of old, who kissed and rode away."

SHIP BUILDER LAUDS HEARST

President Arms of Moore Yards Says England Is Worried About American Shipping

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—Picturing the great anxiety of Great Britain over the future of the American merchant marine and lauding the patriotic efforts of William Randolph Hearst in combating British efforts to secure the International Merchant Marine, George S. Arms, president of the Moore shipyard, returned from Europe.

Arms has seen the last six months in England, France, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Italy, in an exhaustive survey of shipping conditions.

"The American merchant marine, fostered through the provision of the Jones law, promises to restore the American flag on the seas and bring prosperity to this nation," declared Arms.

"England, jealous of our activity, has launched attacks on our efforts and her leading shipping men declare America should be content as a producer and allow England to be the transporter."

"While our program of placing the American flag on the seas again is well formulated, we will continually be subject to secret attacks by long land and we only recently escaped falling for a masterly stroke when William Randolph Hearst asked the plans of British admirals to establish the International Mercantile Marine with ships at American taxpayer's expense."

'FIERY HELL' IS BEING FOUGHT

Unitarian Women Take Up
Cudgels Against Doctrine of Everlasting Punishment

The Unitarians of New England have started their campaign against "fiery hell and everlasting punishment" according to a public statement by Mrs. Caroline S. Atherton, secretary of the Alliance of the Unitarian and Other Liberal Churches. Mrs. Atherton is urging salvation by character.

The convention of Gospel Fundamentals, which will hold its three-day session in Tremont Temple, September 24, will attempt to suppress the theology of the Unitarian Women.

New Dr. W. A. Tarry and Dr. William Evans, both of New York, will arrive in Boston shortly.

Gives Birth to Nine in Plane 2 Miles Up

Paris, Sept. 8.—The first aerial birth in history is now a matter of record. "Pilotte," the pet dog of Henri Reaet, the French Air Minister, gave birth to nine puppies while she was flying in her master's plane 12,000 feet above Rome. The puppies and their mother are settling along nicely.

Reaet is expected here today, coming by air after six thousand miles of flying that has taken him to most European capitals. He did not suffer a single mishap. The dog accompanied him all the way.

and prepare for a defense of the theology of New England. (Evangelist) Robert S. Smith of Boston, who is making preparations for this convention, said today:

"We have got to put on New England people back to the religion of their fathers."

"We hope to avoid any controversy in these meetings and they will be a direct effort to put on the many old religious teachings which have helped to make this country what it is."

BUILD HOUSES FOR PARIS POOR

Thousand Homes to Be Built to Help Relieve Suffering This Winter

Paris, Sept. 8.—Anxious to avoid suffering among poor of Paris this winter, the French Minister of the Interior, M. J. L. Breton, is driving forward plans for the erection of provisional houses. The scheme which has been able to set moving is unfortunately not on a large scale. It will allow for the building of only about 1,000 houses.

The main difficulty is, of course, the cost of material. M. Breton has only been able to get 25,000,000 francs to work with. Half of this will be found by the state. The other half will be provided by the Department of the Seine. Purchase of ground will run away with a large share.

Teachers Appeal to Public for Money

Mrs. Edward C. Mason, acting president of Massachusetts Parent Teacher Association.

"The low salaries of teachers have been many of our best women out of business and mercantile districts. That is why the Parent Teacher Association considers teachers' salaries as important a problem as they have in hand in all their state and national work."

Mrs. Edward C. Mason, acting president of the Massachusetts Parent Teacher Association, speaking for the fall convention of the association in Boston in October, defines the present scarcity of teachers as due to low pay and nothing else.

"The teachers' association has already been seen in the salary situation," she said. "The teachers' association of the Massachusetts Parent Teacher Association of Townsend reports that, as a result of its efforts, salaries have gone up $228."

"Naturally many parents have urged a fitting recognition of the service of the education of their children and have worked through our association with success. This salary question is a vital issue."

APPEAL TO PARENTS.

The Parent Teacher Association comes into prominence this fall by reason of a departure from its precedent of twenty years.

Instead of time from its founding, for the first occasion on record, the association sends out an appeal to its friends to give five dollars or ten to the end that Massachusetts children may be spared little citizens.

In making the appeal Miss Ruth A. Bostrom, corresponding secretary, explains the needs of the association and its aims.

"The first step," she says, "of course is to bring the school and the home closer together."

"We aim, throughout our State, by our association to encourage child study. If Elizabeth tells stories which are not true, and James plays truant from school, we must know why each does it. Find the cause, and you may correct the fault."

"Then, as to child health. A closer relation between home and school will see a school doctor and a school nurse in every town. We will see that some thing is served at school, to go with the cold sandwiches brought from home. It will stimulate school gardens which the children take great interest in. It will provide playgrounds. It will increase teachers' salaries."

MAKING BETTER CHILDREN.

"It will give us clean lines. It will make the children of our child better. It will make them more cooperative. It will make them more of the great saving of the future citizen."

This October 21, 22 and 23 the association will hold a convention in Boston.

The Massachusetts association is federated with the national association. In this state alone there is a membership of 7,000, with 120 Massachusetts towns belonging.

BUNKER HILL BOYS' CLUBHOUSE ROBBER

The Charlestown police are investigating a break made in the Bunker Hill Boys' Club on Green street, Charlestown, where a leather bag and athletic equipment valued at $10 were stolen, and which is believed to be the work of boys. Special officer Michael J. Allen located some of the stolen articles in a house on Bedford street and expects to locate perpetrators of the break in the juvenile court, Saturday.

COMMUNITY CARS FOR NORWOOD AND WALPOLE

A new division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, operating in the cities of Norwood and Walpole, through a committee, took formal charge of the lines.

The lines, running through these communities have been formed into a new Norwood division, extending from Grove street, where the Eastern lines connect with the line elevated through Dedham, Walpole, Norwood and Walpole.

SENATOR WALSH HEADS HOLY CROSS DRIVE

Senator David J. Walsh of Massachusetts has accepted the chairmanship of the Holy Cross drive which will conduct a campaign for a $1,000,000 fund for the erection of Holy Cross College at Worcester through the erection of new buildings. Senator Walsh is a graduate of the school of the order of 1892. His campaign program was drafted upon at a reunion of the alumni at Worcester Labor Day.

Film makes teeth dim and dingy

You may not realize it, but remove the film and see how tooth look then. Compare your teeth now with the teeth you see after this ten-day test. It will be a revelation.

Every woman owes this to herself.

Five quick effects

Pepsodent brings five desired effects with every application. Some are at once apparent, and all soon show their benefits to teeth.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling. Another instant result is multiplied alkalinity of the saliva to neutralize mouth acids.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Thus with every application Pepsodent combats the teeth's great enemies in new and efficient ways. Both in Europe and America it is fast bringing a new era in teeth cleaning.

Few children escape

Children's teeth seem most susceptible to film-caused attack. Very few young folks escape them. Dentists advise the use of Pepsodent from the day the first tooth appears.

Old methods have proved inadequate. See what the new way does. Right tooth protection in early years means much in years to come.

Men who smoke will also see conspicuous results. Their teeth are often much discolored, for tobacco stains the film.

Watch the change in a week

Send this coupon for a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent. How clean teeth will be after ten days. Mark the absence of the vicious film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears. These effects mean much to you. Cut out the coupon now.

A Livable Room

The Kind That Moller Furnishes

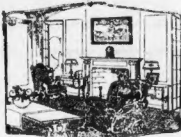

They used to call them Parlors. The parlor was stiff and formal, and only used for "company"—nobody ever lived in it.

Now they call them Living Rooms. They are furnished with soft upholstered chairs and couches that invite to comfort—to living.

It is such rooms that Moller's excels in creating. Luxurious suiles in velvet or tapestry—deep piled rugs that your feet sink into—graceful, deep-toned loungings—pictures that inspire—lamps that "shed the light of home" from beneath exquisite silken shades—beautiful clocks that tick off the happy hours—everything that makes a room livable.

And at Moller's you can get everything at once—no waiting to save up. You simply pay a small amount down, your furniture is delivered and you have the pleasure of living with it, while you're paying for it in small sums you never miss.

You pay no interest at Moller's and prices are guaranteed to be lower than those of any Boston store (with the possible exception of a few unimportant price-restricted articles).

You'll find any Thursday or Saturday evening a restful time to shop at Moller's.

Giants Finish Up Stay Here by Taking Both Ends of Twin Bill

By NICK FLATLEY

Pat Moran and his Cincinnati champions marched onto Braves Field today, expecting to improve their slender margin of lead over the pursuing Dodgers and Giants. P. M. and his champs had a double opportunity for the aforesaid improvement, as the Triple outfit is rather a dismal affair just now.

The Giants didn't have the least better walking off with the ultimate dual engagement, and added insult to injury by letting the venerable and generally regarded useless Slim Ballou lose one of the victories.

The champion Reds sat and looked on, and thereby collected the notion that they will just about catch another prominent before they depart hence Saturday evening, after knocking in five gamblers. Their Reds are going more smoothly just at present than they have been all season.

FIRST WORK FOR B.C. GRID TEAM

Coach Cavanaugh Confines
Practice to Fundamentals;
Many Veterans Back

Coach Cavanaugh's football squad at Boston College is growing daily, and all the veterans and newcomers are excited by the first of next week today. Today, veterans, dummies, and Tany tomorrow, one of last year's wing tip, reported.

Eddie Foy, guard on the second team last year, also reported. Harlan Treat, inner Somerset High line man, and Kemp, a quarterback from Providence, are likely-looking acquisitions.

Today's workout consisted of a light pass drill followed by passing work, a period of team formations, that ended with a long jog around the field, capped the practice.

him as farewell gift. One of the scenes from the forthcoming motion picture romance soon to be seen at the leading theatres.

When a Girl Marries

By Ann Lisle

IN the morning the shrilling summons of the phone roused me from a sound sleep. I was and lay for a minute or so, dazed and wondering what the matter was. I had just been thinking of the girl who had married me, and the thought came into my mind that I had married her for the wrong reasons.

She was a girl who had married me for the wrong reasons. I had married her for the wrong reasons, and she had married me for the wrong reasons. I had married her for the wrong reasons, and she had married me for the wrong reasons.

She was a girl who had married me for the wrong reasons. I had married her for the wrong reasons, and she had married me for the wrong reasons. I had married her for the wrong reasons, and she had married me for the wrong reasons.

Taxation in England
THE amount of taxation per person in the United Kingdom is $112.25 per head in the current financial year, compared with $17.70 in the year ended March 31, 1914. The tremendous cost of the great war accounts for the increase.

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND Hitchcock

Copyright, 1919, by The Ladies' Societies

HITCHCOCK
VARIATIONS—Hiccox, Hicks, Hitchins, Hitchinson, Higgins, Higginson, Hitchcock.
RACIAL ORIGIN—English.
SOURCE—A given name.
ALL of these family names are in the majority of cases derived from one of the variations of the given name Richard, which today is more widely represented in the English speaking world than it is as a given name. Richard was a tremendously popular name among the medieval English, and though it was a name brought into England by the Normans the greater part of its popularity lay among the Anglo-Saxon element. The reason was this: Richard was a name which was in his personal life, was the ideal of the masses on account of his warlike daring. The "masses" in those days were Anglo-Saxon. The "classes" were Norman.

With the same popular variations of it, or nicknames, spring up very rapidly and to turn them give rise to entire groups of very different-sounding family names. Names of the "Dick" group already have been discussed in earlier articles, but those of which Hitchcock is representative belong to the "Richard" group. This nickname took several forms, among which were "Hiccox" (like "Hiccox") and "Hitchcock," both formed by the addition of diminutive endings. All of the names became various names through the addition of the word "son," which, in some cases, has disappeared altogether, and in other remains as a mere "er" or "son." In the "Higgins" (when it is not of Celtic origin) is a development of "Hiccox's son." When this "er" sound in the middle of the name did not develop into a "y" sound, the original trend brought it ultimately to a "ch" sound, and in one instance (Hiccox) the softening of pronunciation went a step further to "s."

Tomorrow—Higgins (Irish).

The Rhyming Optimist

By Alme Michaelis

THESE are words of wisdom which linger somewhere at mountain or seashore this Fall; they are speaking about in the Book, bracing us while their bubbles keep bubbling. And by certain circumstances it is easy to tell a home where the words are to be found. The words are to be found in the home where the words are to be found.

Shame on Them.

PERHAPS there are a few mothers who do not know the virtues of Fletcher's Castoria. Perhaps there are a few who know that there are imitations on the market, and knowing this demand Fletcher's. It is to all motherhood then that we call attention to the numerous imitations and counterfeits that may be set before them.

It is to all motherhood everywhere that we ring out the warning to beware of the "Just-as-good." For over thirty years Fletcher's Castoria has been an aid in the upbuilding of our population; an aid in the saving of babies.

And yet there are those who would ask you to try something new. Try this. Try that. Even try the same remedy for the tiny, scarcely breathing, babe that you in all your robust womanhood would use for yourself. Shame on them.

Children Cry For

Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Your Friend, the Physician.

The history of all medicines carries with it the story of battles against popular beliefs; fights against prejudices; even differences of opinion among scientists and men devoted their lives to research work laboring always for the betterment of mankind. This information is at the hand of all physicians. He is with you at a moment's call, he is the trouble trifler or great. He is your friend, your household counselor. He is the one to whom you can always look for advice even though it might not be a case of sickness. He is not just a doctor. He is a student to his last and final call. His patients are his family and in loss one is little less than losing one of his own flesh and blood.

Believe him when he tells you—he will—that Fletcher's Castoria has never harmed the slightest babe, and that it is a good thing to keep in the house. He knows.

NE WIDEBROADWAY IS ATTRACTIVE

South Boston Theatre, Recently Opened, Provides Every Comfort for Patrons

By FRED J. MCISAAC. Perhaps the most rapid development in recent theatrical history is the establishment of beautiful, spacious and luxurious theatres in the outlying districts of our big cities.

Boston's suburbs now possess theatres which in size and splendor compare very favorably with the famous playhouses in the centre of the city, and the latest and finest of these is the Broadway Theatre in South Boston, which a syndicate of local business men have just opened to the public.

It straggled over there yesterday and took a look at the place. It is high class in every respect. But the ubiquity of the motion picture, that the theatre has been the Broadway picture have the advantage of being shown in the theatre, and the theatre has the advantage of being shown in the picture.

When these suburban houses first began to open, it was widely predicted that they would be the ruin of the theatre in the centre of the city. On the contrary, they seem to have had a new era of theatre-going, for despite their increasing numbers the attendance at the theatres in the city has never been so great.

the Bag

HERE IS ARTICLE X.

"The members of the League undertake to respect and preserve against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the League. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression the Council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

By JOSEPH C. CANNON,

Former Speaker and Republican Nestor of the House of Representatives

IF Article X, means anything, it means that the Congress of the United States shall surrender to the League of Nations the power to declare war and retain only the privilege to appropriate American money to support war declared by other members of the league, and order our boys to fight in the quagmires of other peoples. I am opposed to the United States holding the bag.

Beware of Unfair British Propaganda

At the celebration of the Pilgrimage held at Provincetown, Mass., recently there appeared an organization called the "Sulgrave Institution." By some hocus-pocus this organization took charge of the proceedings and turned this celebration into an special panegyric upon Great Britain and into proceedings impertinent and offensive to the tens of millions of other races which make up the American people and without whom we should be an altogether different nation.

The insolent criticism made by the principal speaker on the occasion of other races which compose the great composite American nation attracted unfavorable attention throughout the State. We had supposed that these unfortunate and disgusting proceedings were the result of incompetent management by those in charge of the celebration together with the effrontery of those representing this Sulgrave Institution. It was fair and charitable to assume that the incident was inadvertent and emphemeral and, therefore, needed no editorial comment.

But Tuesday appeared the news dispatch that President Wilson proposed to put the presidential yacht "at the disposal of Lord Rathborne and his associates on the British delegation when they arrive September 18th, to take part in the tercentenary celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims.

This gives the Sulgrave Institution national significance and warns us that at the coming celebration we may have to suffer some more bad taste, bad history and bad statesmanship. The Sulgrave Institution is composed mostly of Americans who prefer England to America as their home and Britons who understand the political advantage to Great Britain of cultivating the friendship of Americans, relying upon the ignorance of the American people of the world's conditions to make us pawns when they feel sure of our good will.

The purpose of the organization is to promote such a good will between the United States and Great Britain. It is a perfectly honorable, legitimate purpose. Men of all classes must hope that in the end the people of the United States and Great Britain will dwell in peace after England has put her house in order. The people of the United States, however much they detest the conduct of certain British governments, really do admire and respect a large element of the British public.

For example, they admire British organized labor and wish that our own organized labor were as democratic, as self-controlling, self-respecting and sensitive to principles and to the rights of foreign nations, and had rendered the service to international justice that the British workmen have rendered in stopping the British government from persecuting the Russian people. There is also the great body of non-conformist British class whom the Americans have always admired. These two classes make up a majority of the British nation, though unfortunately they do not often control the nation.

Any legitimate efforts by legitimate propaganda which the people of one nation may make to bring about the friendly feeling toward them by the people of another is legitimate and this newspaper would be the last to denounce or discourage it. But we must be on our guard against it, if it is impious, for propaganda of this character to be always fair and to keep itself wholly within legitimate limits.

We do not want to be friendly to the British people to the exclusion of friendship for other peoples of the world. We do not want to extol the Anglo-Saxon blood in us at the expense of respect for the other blood that flows in our veins. Above all, we do not want the British people to think that they can make the idea that blood is thicker than water do duty for deeds. We are scarcely less sensible than our ancestors who fought their alleged count pretty bitterly and threw off all political relationship with them a good many years ago and have fought them again since for the freedom of the seas.

There are certain occasions when the historical fitness of things forbids certain propaganda poses. We can imagine nothing more disgusting than the attempt to single out the Anglo-Saxon blood in us and extol it as our best blood, as our liberty-giving and liberty-loving blood on the occasion of the celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims. Those who listened to the man Eaton addressed to them at Provincetown concerning foreign blood in this country and concerning the noble traditions of Anglo-Saxon freedom—political, social, economic and religious—must have forgotten the American history, because none of them protested against it on the spot.

It is a ghastly joke to extolize the tradition of Anglo-Saxon freedom at a Pilgrimage celebration. The Pilgrims were exiled from Great Britain. They fled from the most terrible persecution that the most ruthless, cold-blooded, tyrannical men could devise. They differed from the established English church in a mild respect concerning church government. They believed that men had a right to establish their own church government. That belief subjected them to the death penalty and those of them who could be caught were sent to the scaffold.

So they fled to Holland, where they were given freedom to worship and aims from the sympathetic Hollanders. But, apparently, Holland was not the place of the liberty-loving British lion, as they sought safety across 3,000 miles of ocean upon an unknown continent which the French and Italians were only just exploring and on which there were no white settlements and where Anglo-Saxon tyranny had not extended its sway.

When we want to deliver panegyrics upon the Anglo-Saxon as an exemplar of liberty we want to seek some occasion quite different from the celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims or the Fourth of July.

Complaints from Below

By S. E. KISER

WE stand around and grumble when a man comes crowding through, Doing things I thought of doing, rising rudely over you. We hate him for his coarseness, but he doesn't seem to care, And compels us to pay double for the things we eat and wear.

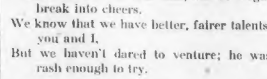

WE hear him boasting loudly of the fortune he has won; He calls the world's attention to the things that he has done. We sneer, perhaps, but only when he doesn't see; we stay.

At the rear while he goes forward in his crude, bombastic way. HE is proud, with little learning and no reason to be proud, And he thinks the Lord has blessed him—made him better than the crowd.

We see him pushing onward, crushing others here and there, Selfish, cock-sure and conceited—always, somehow, "getting there."

WE scoff at his pretensions, but make way when he appears; We feel inclined to hiss him, but at length break into cheers.

We know that we have better, fairer talents, you and I. But we haven't dared to venture; he was rash enough to try.

Rear Baby Like Young Savage

BRING UP your baby like a little savage, and it will grow up strong, vigorous and healthy. This is the advice of a distinguished Boston physician, Dr. Charles E. Page.

Modern babies, according to the doctor, are reared wrongly. Mothers allow them to lie on their backs, to sit up at an early age, and encourage the little ones to stand and walk as soon as possible to the belief that the accomplishment shows precocity.

This is all wrong, according to Dr. Page, whose theory is described in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser by Dr. W. H. Hallon in a special article of interest to all mothers. "Let your baby lie on its belly and crawl on all fours like the little animal that it is—and you won't have to worry about its health," is the doctor's advice.

Mike Gilbreath, the Belgian youngster who was named a year ago by making five attempts to smuggle himself into America aboard transatlantic liners, must have been born under a lucky star. Mrs. Marion G. Curry, the wealthy woman who became his guardian and promised to bring him up as a gentleman, recently lost her money. It looked like a return to Belgium for little Mike. And now there appears a wealthy gentleman who has taken Mike over as his son, and, all is well again. Read the surprising adventures of this little stowaway in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser on Sunday.

A fascinating new detective mystery story begins on Sunday in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Its title is "The Fatal Necklace," and the author is Roy Vickers. The first installment is charmingly illustrated in color by Edmund Forster. Do not miss the opening chapters of this new story.

They know that if we'll just listen to them everything will be so much happier for us than anything we could hope to arrange by trusting to our own weak and feeble judgment.

Sweeping L Stations

Editor Boston American:

I am a great admirer of your editorial page, and while it is the last page in the paper it is always the first page to be read.

Under date of September 3 I notice that the City Council, at your suggestion, has passed an ordinance requiring the cleaning of sidewalks at such times as it may seem injurious to the health of the general public.

I happen to be one of the unfortunate citizens that are compelled to ride in the ancient rolling stock of the Boston Elevated Railway Company. What I wanted to ask you is this: If it is unhealthy for a man to be in the vicinity when a sidewalk is being swept, then how about poor devils that are waiting for trains and cars in the crowded stations while they are sweeping same. I travel from Summer street to Sullivan square every night, and it is always between the hours of 5 and 6, and yet if one does not keep his eyes open there will be a dirty old man sweeping across his feet.

If there can be a law passed telling the street sweeper when he sweeps his sidewalk, then why can't the same law be applied to the Boston Elevated Railway Company?

EDWARD J. MANNING, Medford.

Birds and Their Ages

Some birds live to a great age. The age of ninety is known to have been reached by a gray parrot, and there are many statements of birds of the parrot family having lived for over a century. The raven also is credited with having reached one hundred years. The domestic goose is another long-lived bird. Many instances are known of geese attaining forty years, but it is not said whether they were fit for table purposes at that age. The ostrich, a domestic fowl, is seldom alive at the age of old age, but in some country places old fowls are still seen that have been made pets of and are allowed to remain until they are ten or twelve years old, long previously having ceased to lay.

DIOXIDE OF CARBON IS HARMLESS IN OPEN

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Believe me, the carbon dioxide given off by human beings, plants and animals is diffused into the leaves and stems of plants thus preventing an excess of this gas. Why, then, do we not have an excess in winter and in a large city?"—S. A. P.

THE amount of carbon dioxide in the air at any point is continually changing to a greater extent than would be caused by extra accumulation from trees and decrease of consumption by vegetation in winter, as compared with summer.

Moreover, a considerable variation of the amount of this gas in the air would have no serious effect upon either animal or vegetable life.

Standard for Health

The open air of large cities, like London, has been found to contain on the average about 4 parts per 10,000 of carbon dioxide, and this proportion is generally regarded as a standard for healthful conditions, yet in the open country and on the seashore this amount often decreases to from 3 1/2 to only 2 parts per 10,000. On the other hand, in close rooms the quantity of carbon dioxide rises to as much as 10 parts to 10,000 without serious consequences to their inhabitants.

In a general way, it may be said that the quantity of atmospheric carbon dioxide is slightly greater in summer and winter than in spring and autumn. At least, that is the conclusion of Professor E. W. Morley from a series of careful measurements. This conclusion seems to contradict the assumption that there should be an increase in winter.

Always Goes to Bottom

However, such an increase may well occur in confined towns, though it should be less in cities subject to free sweeping winds than in those lying in billow-rounder valleys and depressions. Carbon dioxide is heavier than air, and always sinks to the lowest level. For this reason it tends to accumulate in deep caves and wells, and forms the dreaded "after-damp" in mines, which kills the men who enter the mines. It is less abundant in the air over the ocean than that over the land. In land localities it has been observed to be more abundant at night than by day.

The Spectator Inconsistency

"A FOOLISH consistency," says Emerson, "is the hobgoblin of little minds, adored by statesmen and philosophers and divines."

If you are inconsistent, cheer up! Here are a few historical facts that may be of some comfort to you.

Socrates, the wisest man of Greece, who taught the immortality of the soul and the doctrine of one supreme Being, requested his friends, when he was about to die, to sacrifice a cock to Esculapius.

Dr. Samuel Johnson, the great mogul of English literature, would never enter a room with his left foot foremost.

The intrepid Marshal Saxe was convulsed with terror at the sight of a cat.

Queen Elizabeth issued proclamations against excessive apparel, and all the while she wore thousand changes of dress in her wardrobe.

Peter the Great was afraid to cross a bridge, but never gave over his terror of it.

The philosopher Seneca wrote eloquently upon the blessings of poverty. He wrote his remarks upon a table of solid gold, and the same time was collecting interest on loans aggregating several millions.

Halit was said that Mary Lamb, sister of Charles Lamb, was the wisest and most beautiful woman he had ever known. When, after her mother's death at the dinner table, "by moonlight,"

"Many instances are known of geese attaining forty years, but it is not said whether they were fit for table purposes at that age. The ostrich, a domestic fowl, is seldom alive at the age of old age, but in some country places old fowls are still seen that have been made pets of and are allowed to remain until they are ten or twelve years old, long previously having ceased to lay."

So do not worry about being inconsistent. If you are alive and growing you will not think up sorrow what you think today.
